

Jeff L. Schwartz
Managing Director, Human Capital
Deloitte

Jeff Schwartz is a senior Consulting partner with global and emerging markets experience in talent strategies, leadership, learning and talent development, organization design, strategic change, and human resources (HR) strategies. He currently leads the Human Capital practice for US India and is a senior advisor to the Human Capital practices in India and China. He is also a global co-leader of Deloitte's Talent, Performance and Rewards practice.

Jeff led the development of Deloitte's talent services practice in the US was a founding co-leader of Deloitte's global talent management services practice. His experience as a consulting partner and practitioner include work in the US and around the world and he specializes in helping corporations and government agencies plan, design and implement global talent, leadership, HR, training, and change management programs. Jeff led the development of Deloitte's Enterprise Value Map for Human Capital – one of Deloitte's foundational approaches for integrating HR and people services with business strategy and enterprise value. Jeff is also a co-founder of the firm's CHRO (Chief Human Resource Officer) services practice and was also the global and US leader of the Organization and Change practice from 2002 to 2010 and the US Human Capital Chief Markets and Marketing Officer from 2009-2011.

Jeff began his career as a commercial and investment banker at Chemical Bank, now JP Morgan Chase, in New York; in addition, he was a US Peace Corps Volunteer in Nepal and later one of the first Peace Corps Associate Directors in the Russian Federation.

He has an undergraduate degree from Cornell University in History and Government (BA 1980) and graduate degrees from the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton (MPA 1987) and the Yale School of Management (MBA 1987).

Jeff is a frequent writer and speaker on issues at the intersection of talent, people strategies, and business.