

Jessica Gorman Taylor
Managing Director and the Global Head of Corporate Services, Morgan Stanley

Jessica Gorman Taylor is a Managing Director at Morgan Stanley and the Global Head of Corporate Services.

In her 25 years with the Firm, Jessica has filled many roles. She started her tenure at Morgan Stanley in the Information Technology Department developing software for Foreign Exchange and Commodities Trading Systems. She moved on to the Technology Infrastructure area in 1987, managing departments including the Mainframe Engineering and Service Groups, the Global Telecommunications Group, Global Infrastructure Service, the Enterprise Projects Group and the Global Customer Engineering and Support Organization. In mid 2004, she took on the role of Global Risk Manager for IT managing departmental activities associated with Regulatory Risk, Production Risk and Operational Risk Management.

Jessica moved into her current role in January 2005 and is responsible for managing the Global Corporate Services Organization. Jessica is responsible for Corporate Real Estate, Global Workforce Strategy, Property Management, Corporate Security and Investigations, Business Continuity Management, Corporate Travel and Aviation and other General Services. Jessica is a member of the Board of Directors and the Finance Committee for the Times Square Alliance.

Jessica is a graduate of Hamilton College with a Major in Chemistry and a Minor in Cultural Anthropology. Prior to joining Morgan Stanley, she worked as a Software Developer and an IT Management Consultant for Arthur Young (now Ernst and Young).