Jason Hatch
Senior Director Product Management, Web Experience,
Akamai Technologies

Jason Hatch is Senior Director of Web Experience Product Management for Akamai's Asia-Pacific and Japan region. In this role, he is responsible for Akamai's Web Experience products in the region, driving product strategy and functionality to match local market requirements and championing regional needs.

Jason joined Akamai in 2015. He is a proven technology evangelist and product management leader, with global experience.

Prior to Akamai, Jason worked at IBM as the Social Business and Collaboration Solutions Technical Executive for Asia Pacific. He led the technical team that was responsible for IBM's social business, messaging, collaboration and unified communications products. Before coming to Singapore, Jason was UK CTO of IBM Collaboration Solutions and has held various technical leadership roles within the company in Asia Pacific, Europe, Middle East and India. Prior to IBM he was the global CTO of Aptrix, one of the leading Web Content Management companies, which was acquired by IBM in 2003.